U.S. Chamber of Commerce

From the economy to health care, transportation to energy, these are interesting and uncertain times for the business community. While there is every reason for concern, there is no cause for despair. Americans have an opportunity to emerge from this era of our history with a more prosperous economy, a stronger nation, and a renewed reputation as a global leader. We can do this by pragmatically and sensibly fixing what is broken and by protecting what already works.

“We are thrilled to have such a high caliber speaker from the U.S. Chamber of Commerce in Washington D.C. to speak at our Annual Dinner!” said Lori Mattson, Tri-City Regional Chamber of Commerce President & CEO. This is a timely message, as we are all concerned about the direction our business climate is heading. We are also very excited that Washington River Protection Solutions has signed on as our premiere sponsor this year! It is through their support that enables the Chamber to provide members with such positive programs”.
